Non-Smoker Helps Out

A little old lady who is all but 80 years has neither smoked nor approved of smoking, yesterday went against her beliefs to contribute $10 to the Colonist Korean Cigarette Fund.

The white-haired widow of a First World War veteran and mother of two Second World War veterans said she gave the money because "our boys in Korea are doing a fine job and they deserve what few comforts we can provide."

As far as the fund was concerned, yesterday was really "ladies' day." A member of a prominent Victoria family gave her second $1000 check since the opening of the fund.

This and other anonymous donations brought the day's total to $184.50, and the grand total to $729.05.

Fund officials were assured that contributions to the fund will definitely be allowed as a deduction from income tax. Receipts from The Colonist will facilitate this by being clearly marked with the name of the fund.

Donors are again reminded that cigarettes sent to troops overseas are not subject to the heavy tax of 26 cents for a package of 20 which smokers at home must pay. For every 10 cents received, 20 cigarettes or the equivalent in tobacco will be sent to the Korean brigade.

Gardiner Hints Continuation Of Egg, Butter, Bacon Floors

OTTAWA, Dec. 5 (CP).—Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner wound up a two-day federal-provincial agricultural conference tonight with the hint that the government is considering continuation of price support for eggs, butter and bacon in 1952.

But he told British Columbia and Nova Scotia delegates that these two provinces no longer will get special consideration to cover losses on their apple and potato crops.

Federal aid had been granted in the past to cover east and west coast apples sold below cost in markets outside of Canada to prevent their being "dumped" in central provinces.

If any price support is granted for these two products, said Mr. Gardiner, it will be granted to all provinces.

Noting that a new demand for price support on agricultural products had come from the conference floor, Mr. Gardiner countered by saying he had seen no announcement saying that price support is not going to be granted.

In fact, an announcement on the government's policy was to be made shortly. But at the same time he did not believe there had been any strong case made for increases on the government's floor prices.

The government had set a floor of 63 cents a pound on butter; 31½ cents a pound on bacon; 38 cents a dozen for grade A large eggs and 28 cents a pound on cheese.

While the price of eggs may be declining, said Mr. Gardiner, the producer has received an average price this year of 46.6 cents a dozen compared with 34 cents last year.

British Columbia and Ontario urged Mr. Gardiner to approve a price support for eggs higher than the current floor price. W. R. Robertson, deputy minister of agriculture for B.C., suggested 42 cents a dozen.

Acclamation Indicated For Reeves Casey, Gibbs

Reeves Joseph Casey and P. A. Gibbs will be elected by acclamation today unless sudden opposition appears.

Deadline for filing of nomination papers in municipal elections is noon. So far no one has filed papers in opposition to Reeves Casey of Saanich and Reeve Gibbs of Oak Bay.

Mr. Casey is seeking his second two-year term as reeve. Mr. Gibbs is a veteran reeve of his municipality.

Labor Group Blocks News

WINNIPEG, Dec. 5 (CP).—Winnipeg and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.) decided Tuesday that from now on no news on council activities will be provided to the press.

The decision was made after delegates defeated a motion that reporters be admitted to meetings. During recent years members of the press were barred and releases handed out afterward.

Supporters of the motion argued that press releases were not satisfactory because they covered only routine matters and much real labor news was withheld.

A motion that releases be discarded was passed unanimously.

Trio Identifies Slain Gunman

TORONTO, Dec. 5 (CP).—Three former members of the Essex Scottish Regiment of Windsor, Ont., tonight identified a slain gunman as Thomas Danelek, 35, of Windsor, a regimental crest on his left thumb led to his identification.

The ex-soldiers said Danelek killed last night in a gun battle with a police officer during a drug store robbery in central Toronto, was a veteran of the Spanish civil war and of the Second World War.

Four Escape in 30-Foot Plunge

After a 30-foot plunge from the icy Malahat Drive yesterday at 2:30 p.m., this car, driven by Mrs. Helen Pearle of Shawigan Lake School, crashed to a stop in a clump of trees, still carrying part of the guard rail with it. Mrs. Pearle and her three passengers narrowly escaped death, receiving only minor cuts and bruises. (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Shotguns, Clubs Scatter Egyptians

CAIRO, Dec. 5 (CP).—Police fired shotgun blasts and used clubs to disperse anti-British student demonstrators here today. Government spokesman then declared all demonstrations will be banned throughout Egypt, effective tomorrow.

Interior Minister Serag El Din told a press conference of the projected ban on demonstrations. "The government is determined to repress them by all means," he said.

Serag El Din listed 15 police and four civilians injured in Cairo rioting today, saying the police were injured by stones and the civilians by police clubs. Other sources had reported as many as 60 injured.

The students were protesting the killing of Egyptians in the British-occupied Suez Canal zone.

Serag El Din said 117 Egyptians have been killed and 438 wounded since trouble erupted Oct. 16 over Egypt's effort to oust British troops.

A British Embassy spokesman said: "We have had no time to check the Egyptian casualty figures against previous reports, but we are of a strong impression they are widely exaggerated."

The British military has announced their casualties as 20 dead.

The interior minister blamed "disorderly elements" who infiltrated the student ranks for the trouble here today. The demonstrators stoned police, smashed lampposts and uprooted some trees.

In Alexandria a bomb exploded tonight at a British educational institute in the city centre.

BULLETIN

V.I. Boy Dies

GREENWOOD, N.S., Dec. 5 (CP).—A two-year-old boy who wanted to test a pair of new rubber boots was drowned today in a small brook on the R.C.A.F. base here.

Victim was Terrence W. Waller, son of LAC Gordon Waller and Mrs. Waller, who was born at Cobble Hill, Vancouver Island, his father's home. His mother is the former Doris Lee, of Spalding, Sask.

The count at Red Cross headquarters here was 169 bodies recovered. The Red Cross said six villages had been wiped out by the blanket of fiery ash and lava that spread over nine square miles.

The Philippines News Service estimated that nearly 10,000 of Camiguin's 45,000 population had been moved to nearby Mindanao or other adjacent islands out of the path of the volcano's fury.

Philippines pilots returning from the tiny island 450 miles southeast of Manila told of scenes out of the inferno—of lifeless villages on a landscape of smoking grey ashes; of coconut trees standing nude, burned bare of fruit and leaves in the great heat.

The desolation was spread over the northern slopes. Refugees streamed to the safer southern coast.

The Philippines News Service said some refugees in sail boats turned up at Panglao Island, 65 miles to the northwest.

Panglao itself was thrown into a brief panic Tuesday when ashes from Hibok Hibok, blown high and far, rained down there for two hours and blotted out the sun.

Reports said that while the lava fields had begun to cool, the heat was so intense that rescue workers still were unable to reach the heart of the disaster area.

Reds Evasive On Terms Of Armistice

MUNSAN, Korea, Dec. 5 (Thursday) (AP).—Communist trade delegates dodged or gave evasive answers Wednesday on terms for supervising a Korean armistice but the United Nations command indicated it is ready to probe for areas of common agreement.

A third subcommittee session was scheduled for 11 a.m. today (9 p.m. Wednesday, E.S.T.) at Panmunjom.

In exploratory talks Wednesday the Communists cited two Russian satellites, Poland and Czechoslovakia, as suitable to serve on the Communist proposed neutral inspection teams to police a Korean truce.

The Reds also mentioned Switzerland, Denmark and Sweden as qualified to serve because they had not sent troops to Korea.

An Allied spokesman said the fact that neutral countries were discussed was no indication that the U.N. command had accepted the Red proposal for true inspections by neutral nations.

Two City Premises Set For Beer Strike's End

Beer can flow almost immediately from taps of two Greater Victoria licensed premises when the Brewery Workers (C.C.L.) strike is settled.

In other cases, however, supplies would not likely be delivered within two days, and at up-island centres perhaps longer, brewery workers estimated yesterday.

Some 70 kegs of "hot" beer are in cold storage in Victoria. The kegs arrived at a Victoria dock as the strike began and were not delivered to the hotels.

Bottled stocks in warehouses are reported only slight and insufficient to meet an expected high demand.

The two-day requirement is to enable full crews to return to jobs and prepare stalled equipment for action.

Union and company officials met at Vancouver last night in conference with Labor Relations Board officials.

The meeting, which started at 8 p.m., went on until nearly midnight. Neither side would issue any report. A third meeting was scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday.

The strike of some 430 workers at four breweries has virtually cut off the province's supply of beer and thrown some 1,500 beer parlor employees out of work.

The union had demanded a 35-cent hourly increase, while the breweries offered 25 cents.

Communists Lose Five Jets

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 5 (Thursday) (AP).—The Fifth Air Force destroyed five Communist jets and damaged five more Wednesday in the 10th straight day of aerial duels over northwest Korea.

Snow Mantles Grave Of Ghost Town's Last

PHOENIX, B.C., Dec. 5 (CP).—The snow fell softly today on the freshly dug earth covering the grave of Phoenix' last inhabitant.

William Henry Bambury was the last citizen of what was once Canada's highest city—a bustling mining town of five churches, 17 saloons, two railways, an opera house, three schools and 3,500 people.

Phoenix boomed in 1899 and bustled in 1919.

Two stayed.

One was a Belgian caretaker named Adolf Sereu who signed himself 4 Paw. For years 4 Paw paraded the city's rotting streets with a .30-30 rifle under his arm and a flamethrower badge on his chest. He died in 1942.

The other who stayed was Bambury.

He came to British Columbia from Portsmouth, England, to work on the Canadian Pacific. He arrived here in 1900 at the age of 33 to work as a carpenter.

He never left except for a few months in hard winters when he made his way to the hotel in the nearby mining town of Greenwood.

He did leave again, in October, to go to hospital in Trail. But he returned. At his request he was buried in the cemetery on the hillside near the old coppermine's glory hole.

Egg Prices Take Plunge

Eggs got 10 cents a dozen cheaper yesterday.

The price dropped because of sharply increased production in British Columbia and the prairie provinces, market spokesmen said.

Today you can buy grade A large eggs for 60, to 61 cents a dozen. Grade A small eggs cost 55 cents a dozen.

Yesterday a dozen grade A large eggs would have cost 71 cents. A week ago the price was 75 cents a dozen.

ALLABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

Mailbag: "One lady thinks snakes are nice people. The letter comes from Mrs. Freda Davies, Vantreight Lane, in response to a recent column in which I confessed I had felt sympathy for a python."

She denounces the long-standing "horror" attitude toward snakes, and goes on as follows:

"You were probably right in assuming the python was a python. It may even have been one of the Rock Pythons, the paler form of which is a very gentle snake and for that reason is frequently captured or killed, or worse still, condemned to a weary routine of circus sideshows."

"Regarding the Gila monster, there have been many authentic instances of reptiles being picked up and fondled without harm. These include such widely feared snakes as cobras and vipers. As a rule, however, snakes—venomous or otherwise—bolt for cover at the sight of man. An infallible proof of intelligence, don't you think?"

She also explains how the baby kangaroo finds its way into the pouch—a question which was brought up here some months ago. (This will turn into a pet's corner, if we don't watch out.)

"These tiny mammals do perform one of the most amazing feats for a new-born infant. Immediately after birth, a tropism (roughly, instinct), leads it to climb up its mother's hairy coat into the pocket, where it tumbles in."

Two readers wrote to suggest an attack on the premature launching of Christmas and the commercialism of the whole season. Their letters reached me some time ago, and since then other writers have said something about that very grievance, which rather takes the steam out of the subject for me. But the letters are still worth reading.

F.B.S. Saanichton, denounces "the present-day commercialism of Christmas, which is so essentially a season for children."

"What is one to say to little children when they run up to you bubbling over with excitement to tell you that they have just seen Santa Claus in the middle of November? I know it is hard to reach the children themselves, except possibly through the so-called 'Funnies,' but I am sure you can find some way to help many perplexed parents."

Probably it was the difficulty of answering that question that held me back so long. If Santa would bring me some more understanding for Christmas, I might have a try. At the moment I can't think of an answer.

E.D. of Brentwood Bay, is indignant about a letter congratulating a certain store on having Santa at work so early. "What next? Santa Claus before the middle of November. Will we be celebrating the New Year on the first of December?"

"In trying to picture the silliness and disappointment of the Big Morning-after—more than a month of anticipation—well—the gift's all off the ginger bread, Santa's whiskers are mighty thin; the tinsel's tarnished beyond repair, and somebody's drunken all the gin!"

"Gin or its cousins have no place in Christmas festivities; the word just happened to fit the lines."

"Please give the merchants responsible for this stepped-up calendar a good jab . . . it will relieve the feelings of a lot of us. . . P.S. One irate parent says, 'this early Santa gives the kids more time to work on the parents for gifts that they can not afford in the first place!'"

Kaiser Claims Misinterpretation

His remarks on immigration were misinterpreted, P. Kaiser last night told Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-T.L.C.).

He also said Council Secretary Percy Rayment exceeded his authority in writing to The Daily Colonist dissociating the council from his remarks.

Kaiser was reported on Nov. 22, during a panel discussion on immigration, to have said, "They're not bringing in trade unionists, they're bringing in animals."

The statement was made in an economic sense and was not meant to discriminate against immigrants as persons, Kaiser told the council last night.

He said that two persons writing letters to the newspaper did not understand the situation. The statement was not made in anger; it was made clearly and calmly, Kaiser said.

Anyone who calls European press reports for the past 20 years would find it true, he contended.

Persons used to misery and degradation could not immediately live up to conditions in Canada where rights have been preserved, he contended.

Kaiser said he "wasn't sorry for the statement," and challenged the council to place a discrimination charge against him.

He questioned Percy Rayment's letter to The Colonist stating he was rebuked. "It was not in the minutes," Kaiser said.

Council passed a motion endorsing the secretary's letter as Kaiser entered the meeting.

Earlier another boilermakers' delegate said that a matter overlooked was that immigrants are brought to Canada when "Canadians are being shipped back to the immigrants stay for battles and preserve Canadian manhood."

"If Canadians have to fight let John Martin said."

Crash Fatal To Labor Man

PENTICTON, B.C., Dec. 5 (CP).—W.D. (Bill) Wilson, one of three Vancouver trade unionists injured last night while en route here for a labor conference, died late today in hospital.

Wilson, who received a crushed chest and internal injuries, was organizer for the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (C.I.O.).

Also injured when the car in which they were riding skidded from a highway near Keremeos, B.C., and plunged over a cliff were Jim Fitzpatrick and Ernie Cook. Fitzpatrick is president of the Vancouver Ironworkers' local, while Cook is business agent for the North Vancouver Ironworkers' Union.

The three were headed for the provincial Trades and Labor Council conference, which opened here today.

General News Editor Of CP Dies at 44

TORONTO, Dec. 5 (CP).—D. E. Burritt, 44, general news editor of the Canadian Press, died today.

He underwent a stomach operation Nov. 16 and never recovered.

To fellow newspaper men from coast to coast in Canada, and in London and New York and Rome and Algiers, Daniel Ernest Burritt was known familiarly as "Ernie" or as "Dey," from his signature on messages directing coverage of news events across the country.

Oddities

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 5 (Reuters).—English striptease artist Phyllis Dixey and her troupe of nude dancing girls have offered to appear for nothing and wearing nothing—on Danish television.

But television program director Jens Lavaretz, his desk heaped high with protests from fathers most of them without TV sets—said "no, thank you."

Had the offer been accepted, the nude ballet would have been seen by a minute audience. Television is in its infancy here and viewers number only about 100.

TOPEKA, Kas., Dec. 5 (INS).—Three is a crowd. In fact, almost the whole crowd—aboard the Santa Fe Railroad's "doodlebug" train between Fredonia, Chamute and Pittsburg, Kas.

The railroad told the Kansas Corporation Commission today that the train loses $20,000 a year, and it would like to discontinue the train.

Its average daily load: crew, three; passengers, two.

Counsel Quits Revenue Body Under Attack

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (INS).—Charles O'Donnell quit today as top revenue bureau counsel.

24 hours after he was named in a purported $500,000 shake-down plot, and the justice department was asked to probe conflicting testimony on the scheme.

Chairman C. R. King (D., Calif.) of the house committee investigating tax scandals, announced that contradictory statements by the attorney will be turned over to the justice department to determine whether perjury was committed.

King's announcement came after Frank Nathan, one of the two men accused by Chicago attorney Abe Fortasbaum of instigating the extortion plot, denounced the accusation as a "dirty, filthy lie... the most vicious lie in the world."

Nathan also branded as a "vicious lie" the testimony of Mrs. Sherry Menkin who said she was present when Bert K. Nestor told Fortasbaum he would be sent to prison unless he paid the $500,000 fix money.

King dismissed that it is "quite clear in the past 24 hours that one or more persons have perjured themselves before the committee."

Fortasbaum, former lawyer for the late Al Capone, charged under oath that Nathan and Nestor threatened him with a tax frame-up and prison unless he paid the $500,000 to a Washington "clique."

The 416-ton coastal freighter Island Prince and the fishpacker Chilco Lake collided in Grenville Channel, 60 miles south of here. A three-foot gash was ripped in the freighter's port side.

Most of the Island Prince's 14-man crew were taken off by the fishpacker North Isle. The others remained aboard trying to get their ship into Prince Rupert.

This northern city faced a temporary milk shortage. The Island Prince was carrying 60 tons of canned milk.

The bow of the Chilco Lake crumpled. She was taken in tow by another packer, which headed for Prince Rupert.

Cause of the collision was not immediately known except that a fierce gale was sweeping through the high-walled channel at the time.

points. CP's president, Hervey Major, news editor of La Presse of Montreal, said he considered the death of the young news executive "a personal grief."

Frank J. Starzel, general manager of the Associated Press, lauded "a sterling newsman and a splendid individual."

Burritt, in 28 years with CP, rose from office boy to top executive.

On the way, he developed a dozen or more young reporters or editors who became widely known as CP war correspondents, editors or parliamentary reporters. Ross Munro, CP's senior correspondent in the Second World War, was directed in the field from Burritt's London headquarters.

Born in Timagami, Ont., July 7, 1907, Burritt was brought up in Toronto, where he started with CP as an office boy.

Making good as a junior editor in 1928, he was transferred to CP's Winnipeg bureau, then back to head office and on to Montreal and Halifax. After the outbreak of war he was sent to London, where he became bureau chief in 1941.

He was moved to New York in 1944 as bureau chief and the following year to Toronto as general news editor.

LONDON, Dec. 5 (Reuters).—The Queen said today she is glad to be able to say that the King "continues to make most excellent progress" following his lung resection operation in September.

Census Short Of 14,000,000

OTTAWA, Dec. 5 (CP).—Canada's population is more than 100,000 short of the 14,000,000 mark, the bureau of statistics disclosed today in a preliminary report on the 1951 census.

Making its first compilation of total population five months after the census was taken, the bureau estimated total population at 13,893,208—2,386,553 higher than the 11,506,655 in 1941.

All provinces made gains with the exception of Saskatchewan, which dropped 66,817 to 829,175 from 895,992. British Columbia's population was up 41 per cent from 817,861 to 1,153,059.

Biggest provincial gain in numbers was made by Ontario which increased 774,699 to 4,562,354 from 3,787,655.

Canada and Pacific Security

A meeting in New York to construct the framework of a Pacific security council on lines similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The United States will be there; Australia will be there; New Zealand will be there. Canada, by all present indications, will not. Why?

Canada has cold-shouldered the Pacific pact proposal ever since Australia and New Zealand first began to press it several years ago. This Dominion took its cue from the United States, which was lukewarm towards the suggested alliance of Pacific nations until convinced of the wisdom of it by John Foster Dulles earlier this year. Three months ago the United States, Australia and New Zealand signed a treaty for joint defense against any invasion in the Pacific in terms similar to those under which the Atlantic pact nations pledge military aid to one another. Canada was not a party to the Pacific agreement, despite the fact that while this Dominion's influence in Pacific affairs may be help from others. A long and virtually undefended western seacoast, proximity to northeast Asia, and the demonstrated possibility of air invasion by the North Polar route make Canada as vulnerable as any of the other nations bordering the Pacific. If not more so since the probability is that this country is not nearly as well equipped for its own defense.

It may be that because Canada was not a signatory to the Pacific treaty the Dominion has not been invited to take part in the organization. Surely, however, this nation does not need to wait for an invitation when matters which have a direct bearing on its security are to be discussed. Although abstaining from any active part in the recent Middle East security conferences, Canada was represented there by an observer. Pacific security is Canadian security, and the least one would expect of the Dominion Government is that it would ask to have representation at the meetings in New York, even if only in the capacity of a spectator.

The Outlook Is Dim

THE question of which should come first, a ban on atomic weapons or a system of inspection control, has grown into the problem of the hen and the egg—clouded in dialectics. In the case of the latter it matters little, however, as to the priority. With atomic weapons the order of precedence could not matter more.

The West could never agree to wiping out its stockpiles before a foolproof scheme of inspection was devised. Such naive would be an invitation to disaster, and this would be deserved. It would be like a city abolishing its police force in the pious belief it could afterwards concert an arrangement with lawless elements to keep the community safe by inspection.

For his part Mr. Vishinsky seems bent on putting the cart before the horse. This can only be because the Soviet state fears the inroads of international inspectors, either because there are other things to hide or because the Russians are not sincere in their appeals for an end to atomic weapons.

Substitute airplanes for atomic bombs and the situation is more easily understood. Russia herself would scarcely scrap her air force before an iron-clad system was arranged to make sure all other nations would do likewise.

Granting an agreement on atomic weapons which at the moment does not appear at all likely, the difficulties of control by inspection seem in themselves almost unsurmountable. In so vast a land as Russia, or for that matter the United States, it would take an army of inspectors to check on illegal atomic energy activity. Even roaming at will, and no system of neutral inspectors being shown around by national officials would be worth a button, there never could be positive assurance that an agreed ban was not being violated.

Add to this the knowledge that no nation has ever yet permitted strangers to inspect the details of its varied military secrets, and it will be seen that the U.N. discussions unfortunately seem unable to promise any really effective way by which nations can be made to toe a genuine disarmament line.

Airline Safety Rules

WHILE the pro and con of the present dispute between Trans-Canada Air Lines and its operating pilots have not been made known, the issue itself is of sufficient importance to make the public wonder just what is going on. The pilots would seem to have a prima facie case, if their object is to clear the flight deck and keep it clear of all save flying personnel. What mystifies is the fact that there could be any dispute about such a matter, if that is all.

The T.C.A. has an earned reputation for safe operation to maintain, has been scrupulous in adherence to tried safety measures, and nominally would be expected to support its pilots to the hilt in any such question.

What is behind this fuss?

Passengers, company executives and privileged persons not part of a plane's crew have no business on the flight deck under any foreseen circumstances. The mere mention of passengers indicates the business of the plane's crew. It is to get the flight through safely and on schedule. That can be done best by leaving flight personnel to do their proper job without kibitzers of any order, privileged or not.

HELPED WITH FUND

Sir—With reference to the article in The Daily Colonist of Dec. 2, dealing with the raising of $1,000 for the Hugh Creelman Memorial Fund, may we point out the following omissions?

The teachers of Lampson Elementary School worked long and hard on the candy stall. All of the school children participated in the making and packaging of the candies for this stall, which was extremely successful financially. The girls of Grade VIII of this same school had a coat-checking service.

The boys of the Student Council of Esquimalt High School made and ran the games which raised such a considerable sum.

The Esquimalt Celebrations Committee looked after the hot-dog and coffee concession in the evening.

The Parent-Teacher Association ran the home sewing stall as well as the afternoon tea, which was a striking success.

In closing may we thank all of the parents and children who donated the goods which made this bazaar the outstanding success it was.

CIVIL DEFENCE

Sir—Far be it from me to disturb the peaceful contemplation of a ripe old age in the citizens of Vancouver Island, but the facts that I am learning here at this school of Chemical and Atomic Warfare lead me to fear that it might come about in a much more violent fashion.

General Pershing said, "The effect of the unprepared can be so deadly that we can never afford to neglect the issue." This might well be a call to wake us from our present day apathy.

I am in no sense an alarmist, yet while there exists a reasonable chance that our homes, our children, and our country could at any moment be plunged into a wholesale atomic and chemical war it is surely folly to continue with our heads buried in the sand.

Atomic war is not the only catastrophic disaster that can come our way. There are now war gases, a single sniff of which could throw us into convulsions, then paralysis and sudden death. A drop of such an agent on our skin or even our clothing will produce nerve spasms, serious illness, and perhaps prove fatal.

Why then neglect the self and few daily learned precautions that civil defence can teach us? Surely it is our duty that while such dreadful possibilities exist for the sake of our families and our families and our children if not for ourselves we should be wholeheartedly behind every move made by the civil defence authorities to safeguard our welfare.

I might add that the authorities here are fully in agreement that the public should be acquainted with the dangers they may be called upon to face and if they continue in their ignorance they will have no one to blame except themselves.

JAMES AUDAIN,
R.C.A.M.C. School, Camp Borden, Ont.

INSURANCE INQUIRY

Sir—A letter you published from Mr. Ralphs the other day has started quite a discussion around our neighborhood, as it gave a new slant to a lot of things that have been happening in hospital insurance. If this inquiry board has only spent a couple of days with the hospital commission and spends the rest of its time and our money trying to mend political fences then it's time the members all went home, because I can't see that they are getting very far with the kind of results they are putting out, giving the man who doesn't pay his premium a better deal than those of us who do. Still if they get the $2,000,000 that they said they would get, then maybe we will get our premiums lowered. Why doesn't the government tell us how much money it has collected by this offer, or is it going to hide it all away and not tell us what is collected, as is the case in other things. When I read that the chairman of this group may get a position as minister of hospital insurance out of this it looks as though the whole thing is a straight political move, to give somebody a nice soft job in the government. Why do we have to have these expensive commissions with consultants and all the high paid help? I think that the cost of government is high enough already without this sort of thing.

J. PATTERSON,
Victoria, B.C.

PROFANITY IN SPEECH

Sir—The protest referred to recently in The Colonist in connection with profanity over the air could profitably be extended to the too prevalent everyday use of ugly speech; with stupid and often filthy adjectives, which rarely fit the subject and seem to be used to suggest what men the users are.

H. I. CURTIS,

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

"...of shoes—and ships—and sailing—wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THIS is a beggling column, but it's for a good cause so I hope you'll read right through to the end. The Colonist, as you know, is running a fund to provide smokes for the Canadian troops in Korea. I was sort of responsible for starting it because of the column I wrote about welfare amenities for our boys there, and so it's up to me to help push the drive along.

Individually there's not much we can do regarding the lack of auxiliary services, although I'm hoping the subject isn't dropped, but cigarettes or tobacco is another matter.

For at no great cost to any of us we can all help to give these lads a break. Nearly every soldier, as you know, is a smoker. And in the front line tobacco can be a great solace. Take my word for it. You may not smoke yourself, may never have smoked, but to the lads in Korea who do, smoke the habit is a godsend.

What we're trying to do is make sure that they get some Canadian cigarettes and tobacco. It's true they get an issue of sorts, although not very much, but it's of foreign brands. They're Canadians and we would like them to get at least a taste of their own kind.

Some people have responded generously to the appeal. Many have written to voice their enthusiasm. One man says: "Good idea!" Another encloses a donation and adds, "Only too pleased to be able to do so." A woman writes: "Enclosed is a cheque, hope the boys enjoy them." Another says, "This will help to cheer the troops."

It certainly will. Not alone the smokers, but the proof that people at home haven't forgotten them.

It's not for me to preach about giving and I've no intention of doing so. Let me put it that I'm just thinking aloud.

I've a notion; for instance, that some offices in town might like to rig up a tin with a slot in it, so that the odd nickel, dime, quarter, or, of course, fifty cents, might be dropped in. It's wonderful how sums mount up this way.

And, remember this. Don't pack a dime; it will provide a package of cigarettes for some lonely soldier in Korea.

I'm hoping a few clubs and organizations of various kinds think fit to round up some money for the fund. But that's not even a hint. I leave it to their good judgment.

Now I'm aware that nowadays most people are pretty hard pressed, and at this time of the year especially money is none too plentiful. And also, that appeals on the purse are endless.

But maybe this one has a special appeal all its own. I'm hoping lots of folk will think it has. Those who are able to donate in a substantial manner will do so, I'm sure.

There are others, though, who through no fault of their own may have only the odd piece of silver to spare, and who naturally enough hesitate to make a formal donation of such a small amount.

Well, here's a suggestion. Slip a coin in an envelope, anonymously if you like, and mail it to The Daily Colonist, Korean Cigarette Fund. You can send it care of this column if you prefer. I'll see it gets to the cashier.

I'm writing this piece merely to say that every little will help. Remember, a quarter means fifty smokes for some lad who'll give you his warm blessing.

Incidentally, these cigarettes will go forward tax free.

Reports From Ottawa

THERE'S no doubt that Jim Sinclair's committee on resale price maintenance is the liveliest and most entertaining show that parliament has staged so far in this rather dull fall session.

It's really a joint Senate-Commons committee, with Sinclair and Senator A. L. Beaudry as co-chairmen. But because of the political aspects of the questions the non-elected senator has taken a back seat and left the Vancouver Liberal M.P. to run the show.

Sinclair's doing so in an able and incisive manner, refusing to let the Progressive Conservatives mire the committee in a morass of statistical detail. Naturally, if the committee bogged down, it might not reach a conclusion which would help the government decide whether or not to proceed this session with legislation to outlaw price maintenance.

As a group, the P.C.'s have not openly opposed banning price maintenance, but they are playing politics with it. In the Commons, John Dieffenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre, Sask.), accused the government of reneging on its Throne speech promise of a law against the practice, merely because the government decided to refer the question to a parliamentary committee. Yet in that committee, David Fulton (P.C., Kamloops, B.C.), a close colleague of Dieffenbaker, and George Hees (P.C., Toronto-Broadview), seem to be doing little intentionally to speed the task.

Unintentionally, however, Hees probably did more than any other member to solidify committee support for the government's proposed law when he insisted the committee hear former combines commissioner Fred McGregor.

You'll remember that McGregor resigned a couple of years ago after Justice Minister Garson and Trade Minister Howe refused to let him prosecute the flour milling industry for alleged violations of the combines law.

Garson is a member of the committee, and staunchly in favor of banning price fixing. And Liberal M.P.'s are convinced that Hees wanted McGregor called as a witness in the hope of embarrassing Garson and the government.

But the plot, if it were such, backfired. McGregor presented the strongest indictment of price maintenance that the committee has heard. And his words, with 25 years of experience as combines commissioner behind them, carried tremendous weight.

On the other hand, Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (P.C., Hamilton West), went out of her way to gather figures which indicated that one witness for the Canadian Retailers' Federation was at least mistaken, if not an outright liar. The C.R.F. opposes banning price fixing.

But the C.C.F.'ers and the Liberals also are split. Ross Thatcher (C.C.F., Moose Jaw), a well-to-do hardware merchant, sides with the P.C.'s, thus infuriating veteran socialist Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East), his partner on the committee. Last week MacInnis, who of course wants price fixing banned, tried to get the party to bump Thatcher off the committee. But Thatcher told the C.C.F. caucus that if he were removed, he would make a speech in the Commons explaining that the C.C.F. didn't allow its M.P.'s to express differences of opinion. He's still on the committee.

Liberals are no less unhappy about Roland Brandy (Lib., Montreal-St. James), director of the French division of Vickers & Benson, Ltd., an advertising agency. Although Brandy protests his impartiality, it is evident from his cross-examination of witnesses who support the government's decision to ban price fixing that he strongly opposes outlawing of the practice.

"It was a mistake to put Brandy on the committee," one Liberal told me.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IS Santa Claus losing his grip? Yesterday in a department store I saw a woeful sight. There on his throne in the toy department sat Santa Claus, a figure of majestic in scarlet and white. He was surrounded by scenic splendor, in which toys of great price, together with toys of very modest price indeed, down to 49 cents, were skillfully displayed about him. This demonstrates the true democratic character of dear old Santa Claus. He can accommodate the dreams of childhood in practically any price class.

Up the ramp leading to his throne filed a procession of very small children, whose parents stood in the throng waiting at either end of the ramp, all lost in tremulous delight at the beautiful spectacle of infant delusion.

Suddenly the procession halted. A little girl of about three years of age was next in line for the great moment. She hung back, clutching the railing of the ramp. Then she burst into wild screams of terror. She could not back up, because of the solid queue of children behind her. To go forward, she would have to pass the awful ogre she beheld square in front of her.

What an ogre it was! A vast stuffed ogre, clad in scarlet, its face hidden by a ghastly jungle of fur, out of which two wild eyes peered. Even as she screamed, the little girl saw the ogre reaching out its arms for her, and it half rose from its throne to get at her. My sympathies were all with the little girl. An imaginary Santa Claus is spooky enough. A real stuffed one is more gruesome than a stuffed moose.

Her screams were electric. Suddenly, all the children behind her on the ramp caught the infection. And dear old Santa Claus was surrounded by howling, screaming childhood, madly tumbling backwards off the ramp and down to the safety of their Mummies' arms.

Norway's Recovery

By JOHN HARRIMAN

IN the dismal economic fog which is gradually creeping over most of Europe, the bright spots are in the north—especially Norway.

The country is economically the healthiest in Europe. In no nation has E.C.A. assistance from the United States been more skillfully administered, or turned to better use.

No country, it must be understood, suffered greater economic loss than did Norway in the Second World War. In the north, one-sixth of the entire country was laid waste, and the population forcibly evacuated. Half the nation's merchant fleet, a vital industry, was lost to the German U-boats in the allied cause.

Yet today that merchant fleet has been rebuilt. Housing construction is proportionally the highest in Europe—22 rooms per 1,000 population, as against 23 rooms for Sweden and 20 for Britain. Mines have been repaired and re-equipped, and development is being carried on apace in electric power.

All in all, Norway is investing a greater proportion of her national income than any nation of the West—36 per cent this year. Yet, Marshall Plan aid from the United States has been modest by the general standard, about $146,000,000 up to the first of this year.

Nor is Norway slighting her share of the defense effort in Europe. Her goal is to have 270,000 men in the armed services by next year. This is roughly 9 per cent of the entire population, and 18 per cent of the labor force, a far greater percentage than is the case in the United States.

What is most interesting about Norwegian recovery is that it has been achieved along with an improvement in the living standard of the Norwegian people. There is strict rationing in Norway, and taxes are high, which means a certain amount of discontent from both below and above. (The Communist vote was 100,000 in the last election, as compared to 825,000 for the dominant Labor party which today, with 86 seats out of 150, holds parliament in firm control.)

Even with rationing, the per capita consumption of textiles is said by the government to be 20 per cent over the prewar figure. Sugar, coffee and vinegar also are rationed. Yet the per capita consumption of cheese is said to be 40 per cent above prewar.

Of Norway's 1,500,000 working force, half, or 700,000, are about equally divided between farming and manufacture—largely in forest products. Lumbering employs 25,000, shipbuilding and other construction, 100,000; fishing, 80,000, and 40,000 are seamen.

This small, compact working force was willing to forego immediate gain in the interest of rebuilding their war-torn nation. Their forbearance and fortitude are beginning to pay off.

In Norway the central bank, the railways and the steel and aluminum industries have been nationalized, and chemicals, most mining and electric power are government-controlled.

Killing Enterprise

(From The Toronto Globe and Mail)

OTTAWA'S special joint committee of Senate and House members got from Mr. F. A. McGregor what it most needed at this stage of its investigation into resale price maintenance practices—a directional survey from an independent witness of wide experience.

As former administrator of the Combines Investigation Act, Mr. McGregor offered an opinionated brief. But its value consisted less in its opinions than in its clearly presented picture of what happens when any price-fixing device results in competition to keep prices up, rather than at the lowest level consistent with reasonable profit for distributors and the interests of consumers.

Mr. McGregor also offered data of a historical nature not otherwise before the committee. Most consumers will be surprised, and not a little alarmed, to note that 15 per cent of foodstuffs, 60 per cent of the retail druggist's wares, cigarettes, many electrical appliances, much men's wear and even a considerable list of hardware items, have their retail prices fixed by manufacturers. This he called a "negation of freedom that will kill the kind of enterprise that is so much needed by the Canadian public today." He added that "the extension of the practice in recent years has become alarming."

Mr. McGregor cited instances of retail mark-ups of from 40 to more than 100 per cent, accompanied by special inducements of other kinds to merchants who would stock up on the manufacturer's merchandise.

It was indicated by Mr. McGregor that there would be a period of "readjustment" in the retail trade following passage of the proposed law. But he was merely restating, from his point of view, what most consumers already know—that much small retailing activity is uneconomical in any event. He relegated the "loss leader" to an unimportant place in the committee's discussion, his point being that when retailers have learned "how to practice freedom and live independently," they will arrive on the basis of fair profit and service to the community.

Possibly the cheeriest joke in embryo out of Britain recently goes like this: A laborer working on a government building project made repeated trips into the street with wheelbarrow loads of old straw. On each exit the straw was examined by an inspector who each time let him pass the gate because there was nothing concealed in it. That night at the local pub a mate asked the workman what he was doing with all that straw.

"Oh, nothing," the man replied. "I was just strating wheelbarrows."

Teamsters Warn Council

General Teamsters' Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) has threatened to withdraw from the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (T.L.C.).

The threat came from teamsters' business agent Robert Milliken last night when he requested council delegates to rescind a motion placing Stewarts and Hudson Ltd. on the "We Do Not Patronize List."

A motion of non-concurrence in the request moved by Ernest Oliver, carpenters' delegate, was passed 18 to 16.

Council action two weeks ago was taken on request of Victoria Labor Council (C.L.C.).

Milliken explained that his union signed a contract with the company for a 47-hour week for truck drivers and a 44-hour week for yardmen. This came after employees requested decertification from the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.B.E.) and joined the T.L.C. local, he said.

"The men were ready to accept an agreement with the C.B.E. officials were not. The men apparently are more interested in take-home pay than a 40-hour week," he added.

The C.C.L. put its ban on the company following that dispute and also because of an earlier dispute with the I.W.A., both of which strive for a 40-hour work week, delegates were told.

"If the council is to go hand-in-hand with the C.B.E. and I.W.A. and leave the teamsters on a limb, I don't know where we will go, but it will be discussed at the next local meeting," Milliken stated.

Mr. Oliver said he felt a 47-hour week was not good when the trend is to 40 hours. Carpenters also take exception to the fact that some of the company men with the carpenters' union, he added.

Teamsters' delegate Jim Scott retorted that the carpenters would be wise to look to some of its members working "on the side on the sixth day."

Another delegate voiced opposition to "raiding" and supported I.W.A. organizational policy.

Spokesmen for two government departments in Ottawa have promised in the Commons to provide information on a dispute between Trans-Canada Air Lines and its pilots.

The government has been questioned on the dispute, which has resulted in the suspension of several pilots for refusal to carry passengers on the flight deck the operating compartment.

Another question asked why tickets were sold for that deck, contrary to Department of Transport regulations and safety measures.

Canadian Notes

The Canadian Army in Ottawa has released its 80th casualty list of the Korean war. It reports three men killed in action, and one officer and three men wounded. All are from Eastern Canada.

Indications in Vancouver last night were that contract agreement between woodworkers and operators in B.C.'s Interior might be announced today. Despite a strike vote talker have progressed, and hope is held for settlement.

In the Commons at Ottawa Capt. H. W. Herridge (C.C.F., Kootenay West) has urged Defense Minister Brooke Claxton to make a full statement about the status of Kurt Meyer, German general sentenced to life imprisonment for complicity in the killing of Canadian prisoners of war.

Vancouver city hall officials yesterday refused to accept the nomination of lawyer Dudley McGee for alderman in the Dec. 12 civic election because he failed to meet property regulations.

With the Services

An R.A.F. expert returned to London from Korea warns that within a few weeks U.N. jet pilots "may be fighting hard" to retain superiority against "first class" Soviet-built MIG jets.

U.S. Defense Secretary James Lovett says in Washington the military has requested $45,000,000 for the 1953 fiscal year beginning July 1, including an airpower build-up from 95 to 143 groups.

Before the Bench

Trial of five newspapermen of Lake Charles, La., on charges of defamation opened yesterday in that southern city. The five, all with one paper, are accused of defaming county officials during a newspaper crusade against gambling.

In Bridgeport, Conn., without presenting a defense, Dr. Donald F. Gibson has won his freedom from a charge that he caused the death of a wealthy, elderly spinster whose property the State said he coveted. The superior court judge dismissed the case, agreeing with defense counsel that no proof of guilt had been offered by the prosecution.

Dr. Hunter Laments School Costs

Lamenting the fact that the city of Victoria has no jurisdiction over education costs in Greater Victoria, mayoralty candidate Dr. J. D. Hunter last night named that situation as part of the reason for the mill rate rise.

"We have no control at all. We beg and beg the school board to trim their hefty budgets but they won't and we have to pass them."

The cost of education should be the obligation of a higher government, he added at the Victoria West Community Centre meeting.

The issue of the assets of the Victoria Water Board, Dr. Hunter said, had been "hounded about." He said he had been a member of the city council in 1948 when the system was sold to the board.

"It is true," he said, "that no case payment was made at the time but the board undertook to pay the city full purchase price of $3,400,000 in 15 years."

"By 1951 the board had paid $560,000 on the purchase price and $283,000 in interest. In 15 years the board will have paid the price in full plus $840,000 in interest. In turn the city will pay the old water system debt of $2,563,000."

Dr. Hunter said he is in favor of having city garbage burnt in an incinerator with a contractor to do the collecting and burning.

Meanwhile he was happy to say that in watching seagulls dump city garbage at sea, "the seagulls were shocked to see 80 per cent of it sink." He said this bore out his belief that the city crusher was doing its work well.

On the Point Ellice Bridge, the candidate said he felt it would be unwise to spend $121,000 on repairs to last only 15 years. He said the public would profit more if the speed and load curtailments were kept on for a few more years until a new bridge could be built.

In commenting on the Memorial Arena, Dr. Hunter said that although he knew that the roof leaked, there were cracks in the walls, that the refrigeration was not good and that the floor had settled, he still thought it was a good arena.

During a question period that concluded the meeting, he was asked whether he considered the city manager to be worth his $10,000 a year salary.

He answered: "The city manager has only been here a year. I am not fully conversant with what he is doing, but I'm sure we'll feel some benefits later on."

Oak Bay Petitions Object to Willows Bus Route

Oak Bay residents strongly protested to their municipal council last night with two petitions against the present routing of the Willows bus.

More than 100 Oak Bay property owners signed the petitions requesting that the bus be rerouted to the run it made before the summer schedule came into effect.

Council will consider returning the bus to its former route from Cadboro Bay Road to Thompson Avenue, Eastern Avenue and Beach Drive, returning to Cadboro Bay Road by way of Bowker Avenue.

One of the protests says, "In the past three or four years the residents of the south and east 'Beach Drive' area—through the Oak Bay Council, have been deprived of the service to their discretion of a driver whose conception of a lay-over period may be anywhere from three minutes to try to catch a bus at the 10 minutes."

Council also introduced a by-law authorizing raising of $150,000 to pay for local improvements completed this year.

Victoria Underwriters Rap Federal Annuities

Victoria life underwriters claim that subsidized federal annuities place an unfair burden on the taxpayer, and yesterday decided on a strong stand against further government participation in the annuity field.

At their annual meeting, Canadian Life Underwriters' Association of Victoria members heard that underwriters are not against old-age pension legislation, but that annuities are a different matter.

"It is not the persons of moderate means who have taken advantage of government annuities, but largely the more well-to-do citizens, the majority of whom could well afford to buy annuity contracts at adequate premium rates," he said.

He pointed out that administrative costs of federal annuities during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1951, reached $102,357.12, and that during the same period taxpayers contributed $550,796.67 toward the maintenance of annuity fund reserves.

Under a proposed amendment to the Old Age Security Act, a man and wife, if they had the means, could provide for themselves at age 70, a total of $180 a month, all subsidized by the general taxpayer, Mr. Lawton said.

Those who can spare a cash outlay of more than $70,000 can get such protection now, he said.

Subsidized out of all proportion, the annuity field would be better served by private enterprise, he felt.

Although representations to halt further annuity expansion by the government are being made now at Ottawa, the Victoria underwriters decided to bring the matter up at the C.L.U. congress in Toronto in January.

At yesterday's meeting, David Meredith was elected new president of the group; William McCall, vice-president; George Barnard, treasurer; and Roger Oakley, secretary.

Directors elected were Arthur S. Chapman, John McTavish, Charles Berry, and Jack McCall.

Anchovies Proving Headache

Anchovies, small, silver-scaled fish, are proving a headache to west coast herring fishermen.

Most herring fishermen of the Barkley Sound, despite recent storm conditions, they are reaping a rich harvest of herring, but the smaller anchovies are providing trouble.

The herring men use small-mesh nets. They are ideal for trapping herring, but the smaller anchovies get "gilled" in the nets. The small fish travel about in extremely large schools, and when they are caught in herring nets they literally clog the mesh. Getting them detached from the net is a problem.

When such clogging occurs, the herring-men have to take the nets to shore, turn live steam on them to shrink the anchovies, then shake the small fish out of the net.

Reports of the Barkley Sound anchovy problem were received here yesterday from Capt. W. R. Chester, master of the federal fisheries patrol craft, Kitimat, which has returned from another in a series of herring patrols.

"As far as the herring-men are concerned, those anchovies are nothing but a nuisance," he said.

During the past week the Kitimat, has been patrolling waters off the lower east coast of Vancouver Island. About 36 herring vessels were on the grounds, Capt. Chester said. Bad weather over the past week has hindered operations.

Quota for the lower east coast area has been set at 40,000 tons. This will be reached soon providing weather remains reasonably good. The herring are being taken in packers to mainland reduction plants and canneries.

Largest herring catches were being made along the southwest coast of Salt Spring Island, he said.

Bonner Backs "Terms-of-Union" Drive

"Terms of Union" plank in the platform of majority candidate Claude Harrison will have the staunch support of George E. Bonner, president of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association.

Mr. Bonner told The Colonist last night that he agreed with the candidate's repeated statement that "the citizens of Victoria are being done out of their rights."

Section of the Terms of Union which Mr. Harrison has implemented, as read from a copy in Mr. Bonner's possession, promises:

"An efficient mail service fortnightly by steamer communication between Victoria and San Francisco and bi-weekly between Victoria and Olympia, Wash. The vessels to be adapted for conveyance of freight and passengers."

Mr. Bonner also said he had a copy of another government promise, which if implemented would benefit not only Victoria, but the whole of Vancouver Island.

The letter from the Under-Secretary of State at Ottawa to B.C.'s Lieutenant-Governor and dated Ottawa, June, 1873, reads:

"I have further the honor to enclose a copy of the order of His Excellency, the Governor-General-in-Council, fixing Esquimalt, on Vancouver Island, as the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway and further deciding that the line of railway be located between the harbor of Esquimalt and Seymour Narrows on said Island."

"I have further the honor to apply to you to bring the subject under the notice of your government with the view to conveyance in the manner and for the purposes stated in the said order, of a strip of land 20 miles in width along the eastern coast of Vancouver Island between Seymour Narrows and the harbor of Esquimalt."

Mr. Bonner pointed out that on the basis of the letter, the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway should be extended to Seymour Narrows.

The bad slam contract in today's deal was largely the result of North's unwise responding, and south had to produce a "psychological gem" to land on his feet.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
6 ♠ Pass 6 ♠ Pass

Both of North's responses were wrong. His one-no-trump bid would have been correct if South had opened with a spade or a heart, but over the actual one-club opening, North's proper action was to bid one diamond. The no-trump response to a club specifically is used by good players to denote a very fair hand—at least a queen stronger than North's hand—the theory being that one no-trump is not a cheap response to a club since it keeps partner from rebidding the other suit at the one-level.

When, on top of this response, North then carried South's three-club rebid past the no-trump game level, South naturally expected to find a better hand opposite him.

West opened the diamond king. South ruffed, studied the situation for a moment, then led a club to dummy's king. The could not afford to lead two rounds of trumps because that might give East the chance to signal emphatically in spades. Next, declarer led the diamond queen from dummy and passed the trick to West, discarding the heart deuce (not a spade) on the trick.

West, upon winning with the diamond ace, did what almost every other bridge player would do—he shifted to a heart with the utmost "clarity." That, of course, was exactly in line with South's hope. He drew the aces-trump, cashed his other heart honor, then led a trump to dummy and discarded his three spades on the two good diamonds and the heart queen.

Australia Set For Rush Of Immigrants

SYDNEY, Dec. 5 (NANA-KEMNEWS).—Australia is preparing for a record movement of British immigrants in the next few months. The total arriving here from Britain during 1951 will be approximately 30,000, the biggest number since the assisted migration scheme was launched after the war.

Uncertainty about the future in Europe, coupled with Britain's food shortages and economic worries, are regarded as primarily responsible.

There is expected to be a slight decline in the numbers next year because of the Australian Government's new policy of concentrating on single men and women instead of large families as hitherto.

Answering criticisms that Britons and other immigrants are not affording to lead two rounds of trumps because that might give

Uncle Wiggily Story - - - By Howard Garis

ALL STUCK UP

Bunty, the orphan rabbit listened to the rattling sound of the tin pan on the back porch of Uncle Wiggily's hovel. On the pan the rabbit gentleman had put some new, hot molasses lollipops to cool.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Bunty as she heard the tin rattle. "Mr. Fox, Mrs. Fox and that mean little boy fox, Clarence, will eat all my lollipops."

"Never mind if they do," said Uncle Wiggily softly. "It is better to let the foxes eat the lollipops than to have them nibble our ears."

"Yes, I suppose so," Bunty agreed. "But I wanted those lollipops so very much! I saved all the empty sticks from which I ate the lollipops that came on them from the store. Then you made new lollipops for the old sticks; didn't you, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Yes, Bunty, I did."

"And now—Oh dear—the foxes have the lollipops."

"Never mind," said Uncle Wiggily softly. "I have enough sugar and molasses candy left, Bunty, to make you more lollipops."

"Thank you, just heaps and heaps!" whispered Bunty.

Then, out on the back porch, on the other side of the locked kitchen door, there were new sounds. Instead of the rattling of the tin pan, Uncle Wiggily and Bunty heard voices saying:

"Glub! Wub! Glub! Ugh! Slug!"

"Whatever is the matter, Uncle Wiggily?" Bunty inquired.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the rabbit uncle. "I think those three new, strange foxes are all stuck up, Bunty."

"Do you mean they are proud, Uncle Wiggily? Stuck up proud like, you know?"

"They are not exactly stuck up proud like," said Uncle Wiggily. "I think those three foxes are stuck up with the lollipops, Bunty. The molasses lollipops have not yet cooled and become hard enough to eat. They are still very sticky. And when Mr. Fox, Mrs. Fox and little Clarence Fox began to chew on the lollipops, their teeth stuck together. Let's look from the side kitchen window and see what has happened to the foxes."

Knowing that the kitchen door was locked, so the foxes could not get in, Bunty stood beside Uncle Wiggily and looked from the window. She saw a funny sight. Mr. Fox, Mrs. Fox and little boy Clarence Fox were dancing on their hind legs. Their mouths were closed. Their teeth were stuck together by the molasses lollipops. So all the foxes could do, as they danced on their hind legs, was to make sounds like:

"GLUB! WUB! GLUB! GLUB! GLUB! SLUG! MUG!"

"Oh, what funny talk! Ha! Ha!" laughed Bunty. And then she exclaimed: "Here comes Nurse Jane! Fuzzy Wuzzy!"

"Sure enough, here comes Nurse Jane!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "She had bought a new broom—at Uncle Pat Butter's grocery."

"I hope the foxes do not harm Nurse Jane," said Bunty. "Even if their teeth are stuck together with lollipops, the foxes may scratch dear Nurse Jane."

"I do not believe they will," said Uncle Wiggily.

And the foxes didn't. Nurse Jane rushed at them with her new broom and shouted:

"Get off my back porch, you—you bad foxes! Get off!" And, very bravely and boldly, the musketry lady whammed, whacked and smacked those three foxes with new broom until they ran away off the porch. And as they ran, those foxes, still unable to open their jaws to talk, mumbled:

"GLUB! WUB! SLUG! UGH! GUG! GUGGLE!"

"Stop that silly talk!" cried nurse Jane, waving her broom. The foxes were soon far off in the woods. Then Uncle Wiggily unlocked the kitchen door and Nurse Jane hurried in. She sniffed her nose and asked:

"What have you been making in my kitchen, Uncle Wiggily?"

What did the rabbit gentleman answer? I will tell you tomorrow if the jolly bear in the television picture doesn't jump off the screen and hug the phonograph so hard that it cracks a record.

Only 862 B.C. Hospital Delinquents
Register for Arrears Clean-Up Plan

Only 862 British Columbians have registered under the "new deal" for delinquents offered by the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

The 862 registrants and their dependents make a total of about 2,000.

The figures were announced yesterday by Health and Welfare Minister Douglas Turnbull.

The new deal gave delinquents a chance to reinstate themselves by paying a year's premiums and agreeing to pay off their arrears in installments. The hospital insurance service took in $34,000 in cash from the registrants, and will collect another $66,000 in installments.

Only 60 Victorians registered under the plan.
